I'll also be involved with Episcopal diocesan events in Portland, the weekend of Jan 19 and 20. I look forward to seeing all of you again on Sunday, Jan 27.

If you need a Stewardship Brochure, you can find them in the Sun Room, Narthex or the Parish Office. If you are not sure if you sent in your pledge, please feel free to contact me directly (treasurer.stthomascamden@gmail.com). Thanks to everyone who supports St. Thomas'. Everything is possible for him who believes. (Mark 6:23)

Today's Music

The Baptism of our Lord—January 13, 2019

Today's prelude and postlude are both based on When Jesus went to Jordan's stream, Martin Luther's 1541 Baptismal text and sung to Johann Walther's 1524 tune (originally sung to Luther's paraphrase of Psalm 67). Christians have been singing this hymn extolling Christ's Baptism since 1541! If you want to look up this hymn, it is #139 in our hymnal. Die-trich Buxtehude (Danish, 1637-1707) wrote the very florid, ornamented version of this German chorale. Buxtehude, composer and organist, was appointed to the prestigious post at the Mariankirche in Lübeck in 1668. He was also appointed Werkmeister, overseer of all church musical activities. His Abendmusik concerts attracted the young twenty year old Johann Sebastian Bach to make a pilgrimage to Lübeck to hear Buxtehude and to meet him. Marcel Dupré (French, 1886-1971), organist, improviser, composer, wrote the strong setting of this chorale which I play as the postlude.

We enter worship singing a small part (the original has 53 stanzas!) of Marcus Aurelius Clemens Prudentius (348-410?) devotional poem for Epiphany, Earth has many a noble city. In just five short verses Prudentius gives us powerful imagery. We have been singing this hymn paired with Christian Friedrich Witt's 17th century tune, Stuttgart, arranged by Henry John Gauntlett since 1861. We bookend Advent and Epiphany by also singing this tune as the hymn Come, thou long-expected Jesus (see Hymn #66).

As the sequence hymn we sing a 16th century French carol melody (hence the tune name, Une jeune pucelle) with words handed down to Etienne de Ville-neuve, S. J. by the Hurons he ministered to outside of Quebec City. Villeneuve had learned to trust the Indian oral tradition, and believed them when they claimed that this, their favorite Christmas hymn was composed for their ancestors by Jean de Brebeuf (who was martyred along with the Hurons in 1649.) In the interest of time, we sing only one stanza. However, it is well worth your while to come back and read the rest of the text. During communion I play Paul Manz's lilting piece based on this hymn.

The Choir sings a contemporary Baptismal hymn with text by Michael Seward (b.1932) and music by Eugene W. Hancock (1929-1994). Once again, in three short stanzas, this hymn speaks volumes to the meaning of our Baptismal Covenant.

During communion we sing Christina Rossetti's (1830-1894) "A Christmas Carol" (In the Bleak Mid-winter) with the music written expressly for it by Gustav Holst (1874-1934). The combination of Rossetti's poem with Holst's four part hymn is exquisite. We go forth into the world singing William Chatterton Dix's (1837-1898) Epiphany hymn, As with gladness men of old, said to have been written during a serious illness. The pairing with the tune named Dix, was not what Dix wanted! But it works: we have been singing it ever since!

Jane Schroeder, Minister of Music

Needs in the Area

It has come to my attention that our members occasionally run across specific and finite needs among our area families and individuals. I would like to open up this space to those who would like members of St. Thomas' to know when they can help. I consider this part of our Outreach to the area. Lisa+
